Mission Statement

Providing a safe faith-based women's community among all backgrounds of life. We are geared towards spiritual, self-help and entrepreneurship programs for women's transition back to the community with a successful and solid foundation.

Each year, more than 700,000 individuals are released from state and federal prisons.

Roughly 40% of former federal prisoners and more than 60% of former state prisoners are rearrested within three years of release.

It costs an average of $78.95 per day to keep an inmate locked up, the U.S. now spends more than $68 billion annually on federal, state and local corrections.

Research suggests that ex-offenders who maintain a steady job and have close ties with family are less likely to renew their involvement in criminal behavior.

Successful reintegration into the workforce translates into:

- Safer neighborhoods,
- Stable families,
- Prosocial structured activity for an ex-offender,
- Reduced taxpayer costs for reincarceration,
- Living wages for an ex-offender to support himself/herself and family,
- Income for restitution to victims, court and correctional supervision fees
- Continued mental or behavioral health treatment, and child support, when necessary
